

The purpose of reviewing the activity is to understand more about leadership and how to improve the performance of leaders and followers.

You will gain the most from the review if you think about the positive and negative aspects of your personal performance and of the team before getting involved in any discussions.

To help your thinking, answer the questions below openly and honestly. You will then be asked to discuss your answers with others (they will not be marked or collected in as there are no 'right' answers nor 'points' for having done well).

1. Which three adjectives or descriptive phrases would you use to describe you as a leader in the activity:

	In the early stages of the activity	Later in the activity	What caused you to change your description?
Your overall style?
The way you communicated?
The way you made decisions?
The way you utilised your colleagues?
The way you handled any differences of opinion?
Your level of involvement with detail?

2. What effect do you think your overall style had on others? What specifically did you do that may have influenced their feelings?

3. What effect do you think the way you communicated had on others?

4. What effect do you think the way you made decisions had on others?
5. What effect do you think the way you utilised your colleagues had on others?
6. What effect do you think the way you handled any differences of opinion had on others?
7. What effect do you think your level of involvement with detail had on others?
8. If the leadership within the activity had been perfect, what would have been different? Why, and what would the benefits have been? What could others have done to help you become 'perfect'?
9. What are the two most important points to raise and discuss in the review?
